

Abstract of the Disclosure

A slope setting device for an item of furniture comprises a furniture part able to be set at a slant about a horizontal pivot axis, more particularly for worktables (1) with a workboard (2) able to be set at a slant, to bear the furniture part at the respective slant, a guide part (7) having an elongated configuration and to be attached to the carcass (5) of the furniture, a support part (8) projecting from the guide part (7), said support part (8) running telescopically in the guide part (7) and serving for supporting the said furniture part, a brake means (27) adapted to be ineffective or substantially so during withdrawal of the support part (8), and to brake movement of the support part (8) during opposite insertion into the guide part (7). The brake means (27) is able to be worked a user operated actuating means (17). The braking action of the brake means (27) is furthermore adjustable.

Figure 4.